Tate & Lyle files United States International Trade Commission (ITC) Case
Alleging Infringement of Patented Sucralose Manufacturing Technology

Tate & Lyle announces that on 6 April 2007 its US subsidiary, Tate & Lyle Sucralose, Inc. filed a United States International Trade Commission (ITC) Case in Washington alleging patent infringement against three Chinese manufacturing groups as well as 18 importers and distributors. The proceedings allege infringement of patented sucralose manufacturing technology in respect of sucralose manufactured in China and imported to the US by the defendants named in the case.

Robert Gibber, General Counsel of Tate & Lyle said, "Our sucralose manufacturing technology is protected by a robust and sophisticated patent estate, which we will defend rigorously. This action follows the filing with the US Federal District Court in May 2006, which so far has resulted in favourable settlements with three of the ten defendants cited in that case. As a next step after launching our federal case in 2006, we are now ready to proceed with this broader ITC Case and so extend our enforcement action to two more Chinese manufacturing groups, who have stolen our technology, as well as their distribution networks in the US."

The ITC has jurisdiction over manufacturers of goods for importation and importers into the US (even if they are located outside of the US), as well as entities in the US who resell after importation, however small the quantities involved. The ITC has the right to exclude products from importation into the US that are shown to infringe a US patent.

The defendants named in the Complaint are manufacturers:

- Hebei Sukerui Science and Technology Co., Ltd. (and its affiliated entities Hebei Province Chemical Industry Academe, and Hebei Research Institute of Chemical Industry)
- Changzhou Niutang Chemical Plant Co., Ltd. (and its affiliated entity U.S. Niutang Chemical, Inc.)
- Guangdong Food Industry Institute (and its affiliated entity L&P Food Ingredient Co., Ltd.)

Tate & Lyle Announces Investment in European Food Ingredient Group

Tate & Lyle, the global renewable ingredients company, today announced the signing of an agreement to acquire an 80% holding in German specialty food ingredients group G. C. Hahn & Co ("Hahn") for a total cash consideration of £79 million (€116 million). The transaction is subject to German antitrust approval and is expected to be completed by 31 May 2007.

Hahn is privately owned and was founded in 1848. Its headquarters and primary operations are located in Lübeck, Germany. It also has production operations in the UK, USA and Australia, and sales offices in 22 countries. Hahn is a recognised leader in dairy stabiliser systems and works closely with customers across the world to develop customised ingredient solutions. Hahn has been a customer of Tate & Lyle for many years. In the year ended 31 December 2006 the company generated sales of €102 million and profit before interest, tax, exceptional items and amortisation of €10 million on net assets of €43 million.

"The combination of Hahn with Tate & Lyle's existing products, systems and applications skills will provide our customers with a comprehensive texturant offering with particular expertise in the dairy and convenience food sectors", said Iain Ferguson, Tate & Lyle's Chief Executive.

"This investment complements our existing teams, in particular at Cesalpinia Food and Tate & Lyle Custom Ingredients, and will strengthen our European marketing presence, opening new opportunities for developing our SPLENDIA® Sucralose business."

The former owner will retain 20% of Hahn. The agreement includes options which provide for Tate & Lyle to acquire the outstanding shares in due course. In the meantime, Tate & Lyle will continue to have the support of the founding family in cementing the partnership between Tate & Lyle and Hahn commenced with this investment.
